Workshop Descriptions

Assessing ELLs as and for Learning Across the Content Areas—Margo Gottlieb, Ph.D.

In this new era of ESSA, student voice and teacher efficacy are becoming integral to the assessment process. This workshop centers on assessment practices and strategies across the content areas that value teachers and students as decision-makers. It revolves around an iterative teacher-directed routine within the instructional cycle that promotes educational equity. Come partake in the process!

Going Deeper with Academic Discourse: The Power of Conversational Skills—Ivannia Soto-Hinman, Ph.D.

In this session, participants will be provided with an overview of the research base on academic discourse with ELLs and SELs. They will then learn the key conversational skills that will deepen their ELL and SEL students academic discourse, including: 1) What is conversational discourse?; 2) Setting up conversational discourse; 3) Three key conversational skills); and 4) Planning for conversational discourse.

Scaffolding ELA and Social Studies for ELLs—Diane Staehr Fenner, Ph.D.

This hands-on session will focus on research-based, innovative techniques for ENL and classroom or content teachers to use to scaffold English language arts and social studies instruction for ELLs who are at different levels of English proficiency. Participants will apply a framework that leverages and builds teachers' leadership as well as advocacy skills to undergird the effective co-teaching of ELLs in these content areas.

All cancellations must be received by Wednesday, November 30, 2016.
